What About Hockey For This Winter?

The baseball season is now over, football a thing of the past and hunting nearly so. Summer's balmy weather gone, the glorious fall days are passing and before long the crisp, bracing winter will be with us again, bringing the season of hockey, premier of winter sports.

All over Alberta the various towns are organizing their hockey clubs and making plans to insure a successful season, realizing that no town is so dead, as a town without sport, especially in the winter.

In past years Gleichen has had hockey teams that reflected great credit both the club and the town. All or nearly all our readers remember their success, so that it is not necessary to repeat that Gleichen always has been a strong contender for the Bow Valley championship, winning the shield last season.

But last year furnished a heavy load financially, for the club. The fine new rink which by the way is splendid one was built and the expense incident cut into the treasury so much that the financial end was not as successful as might have been hoped. There was even a tendency to criticize the management, but all were working gratis and were unquestionably, doing the best possible under the circumstances.

Now that the rink has been built and a large part of the debts has been wiped out, the prospects for this year may be said to be very good. But it is absolutely necessary that it be run on a good business basis. If the Gleichenites as a whole, could organize in such a manner as to get several capable men as management, men who would take a live interest in the undertaking, paying particular attention to the financial end which seems to have been one of the chief troubles last year—if that could be done then this splendid sport would be placed on a firm basis here.

We have no desire to be too forward in this matter but wish to bring the above points to the attention of all lovers of hockey, which means nearly everyone. Having done so we now leave it to them to "get busy" in what ever special manner thought best. Only let the movement be a general one. One or two men can not do it alone.

Coming Attractions

Musical Eckharts, Tues. Nov. 18

The Musical Eckharts are billed to appear at the opera house on Tuesday, Nov. 18th, under the auspices of the Fire Brigade. The company has made an enviable reputation throughout the U. S. and Canada in the concert business and the theatre-going public can expect an attraction of the highest order.

Prices will be 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at the Palace Hotel.

Masquerade Ball

At the opera house, on Friday evening, Nov. 21st, a grand masquerade ball will be given. Posters announce that four prizes will be awarded, as follows: Best costumed lady, best costumed gent, most comical lady, most comical gent. A big time is anticipated.

J. B. Sim is finishing up the threshing at the Namaka Farm this week. This outfit has had a splendid run and 1913 is likely to be remembered as a splendid fall for threshing in this district.

Nearly Four Hundred Thousand Bushels of Grain Marketed in Gleichen

With this week's issue we have to report that Gleichen has passed the three hundred thousand bushel mark in wheat marketed here this season, which looking backward only a few years—when all the accommodation for shipping grain from here was a box car, and we had difficulty to get even a loading platform, is significant of the fact that the country around Gleichen is rapidly being developed. However, for the past week the total number of bushels of grain hauled in is even less than the previous week, and may be expected to remain small until the river freezes over and the market price advances.

During the week the shipments were correspondingly small, only 13,332 bushels of wheat and 1930 of oats being shipped.

New Ferries

Roy Dean, family, and grading crew have returned after spending the summer in work connected with government ferries. New ferries were established at Empress, Gregory's Ford, Finnegan and the Mexico Ranch, all on the Red Deer River, and repairs were made to the ferry south of Cluny on the Bow and at Dorothy on the Red Deer. At most of these places there was a great deal of grading done in order to make suitable approaches to the ferries. Mr. Dean was in charge of this, while J. H. Wright, also of Gleichen supervised the construction of the ferries. These will be greatly appreciated by the farmers in the outlying districts, and will save many a long mile in the trip to town.

There was a most enjoyable dance given in the Opera House Tuesday night by Manager Roche. The attendance was the largest so far this season and all express themselves of well pleased with the music and the management generally.

The friends of Mrs. W. D. Morrow will be pleased to learn that she is improving nicely at the Calgary hospital and is now out of danger although it will be a long time before she will have completely recovered.

School Notes

The Gleichen school board is to be complimented upon the interest they are manifesting in the welfare of the institution. The enrollment has increased to such an extent that another teacher is needed, and the board is taking steps toward procuring one. They also have had a number of minor repairs made on the school building making it more convenient and pleasant for teachers and pupils. Another commendable policy adopted by the trustees is the issuing of monthly reports to parents of the progress of their children in their studies. Parents are requested to give the reports their careful consideration, and their co-operation with the teachers is cordially invited. Following the usual plan, school will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the morning during the coming winter.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. McLeod last Wednesday evening, Mrs. McLeod was hostess to a number of young people, the affair being in honor of her friends, the Misses Porter of St. Paul, Minn. The evening was a pleasant one, games, music and a delectable luncheon combining to pass the time most enjoyably.

A number of friends were somewhat surprised last week when Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schnepf returned from Calgary and announced their marriage. The contracting parties are well known in Gleichen, the bride being Miss Agnes McCormick. Congratulations are extended to the happy couple, who will make their home here permanently.

A. Brown, one of P. Burns & Co's. men was taken to Calgary yesterday suffering with typhoid fever. Chas. Parks was up from Brooks yesterday on business and visiting his many Gleichen friends.

Gleichenites Need More Enthusiasm

It is really to be regretted that more genuine interest is not taken in our town affairs. To be a councillor is not an enviable position, especially when financing is more difficult than ordinary. Nevertheless some one must hold the position and it is the duty of the faint-hearted to support those who are willing to bear the burden of the town's business.

The council meetings for some months past have not been held very regular partly owing to the absence of some members from town and it would seem some absent themselves without cause unless it be they have wearied doing what they believed to be right and best, only to be found fault with for their pains.

The time for electing a new council is approaching and we would urge upon the ratepayers the necessity of inducing the very best men we have to occupy the vacant positions. It is the duty of the taxpayers to do all they possibly can to make those selected feel that it is an honor and their services are appreciated. Offer assistance and encouragement. Make their work as pleasant as is possible. This can best be done by attending the meetings occasionally and offering some suggestion for the advancement of the town and people.

Too often do we forget that the actions of the council is to our individual interests and we should in a friendly manner discuss with the aldermen each matter before action is taken, and if they do not do all things to our liking do not go about like spoiled children whimpering.

Let us get together and overcome our difficulties and place Gleichen where it belongs in the front van of the progressive towns of the west. We have the very best opportunity to do this, living as we do in the very richest section of the province.

VOLCANOES IN BRITAIN

Eruptions of Ancient Times Formed
Enic Beauties

When the report of a destructive volcanic eruption appears in our newspapers, most English people reflect, with some satisfaction that such awe-inspiring displays of nature's terrible power are never seen in this country. The British Isles, however, have not always been free from volcanic outbursts. Some of the greatest eruptions known have occurred within the United Kingdom. But our volcanoes have been extinct for ages. The last British volcanic fire died down long before man made his appearance on the earth, though great numbers of other creatures must have lost their lives during the eruptions which occurred.

Geologists have discovered traces of the action of these old volcanoes in many parts of both Britain and Ireland. Those who have visited the Lake District have probably walked over beds of lava, which were poured out of the bowels of the earth during what has been termed the age of fire. The eastern shore of Lake Dedwentwater, for example, is lined with hills which are composed of sheets of lava and ashes. No fewer than twelve distinct beds of lava have been noted there, piled up to an altitude of 1,500 feet above the sea level.

One of these hills, named Castle Head, is the stump of the volcano, whence came the huge mass of molten rock which formed the neighboring heights. Wastwater, again, the deepest lake in Cumberland, and Thirlmere, the source of Manchester's water supply, are entirely surrounded by the volcanic rocks of which Scafell, Helvellyn, and other huge mountains are composed.

Wales was the scene of numerous eruptions. Volcanic rocks are found over a great part of North Wales, especially in the Snowdon district, where lava and ashes build up a great mountain group. Mynydd Mawr (great mountain) three miles west of Snowdon, has been proved to be the remains of one of these volcanoes.

In Scotland, at a somewhat later period, a line of volcanic cones belching forth liquid rock stretched right across the country. One of the best known of these is Arthur's Seat. These facts led our ancestors to the conclusion that a causeway had been constructed by giants for the purpose of connecting Ireland with Scotland. It is known, however, that these columns, which have four, five, six or even more, sides, result from the cooling of hot lava.

It is not possible to state exactly the extent of the outflow of volcanic products which took place in this area, but it was certainly the greatest as well as the last of British volcanic eruptions. A moderate estimate of the area covered by the lava streams is 50,000 square miles. Part of this great tract is now covered by the sea.

It is worthy of notice that the volcanic rocks occur in those parts of the country which are famous for fine scenery. This is a close connection between rugged scenery and volcanic rocks. The Lake District, Wales, and Scotland owe much of their beauty to the eruptions which millions of years ago mingled igneous with sedimentary rocks.

Economy is not going without the thing we need when we have the money to buy it. Economy is not keeping a good thing on the top shelf and using a poor one because it will do. Economy is making the most of what we have, and getting things that will help us to do better as fast as we earn the money to buy them.

Apologies of vanity Senator Root told at Yale about a political who, the day before he was to make a certain speech, sent a forty-one page report of it to all the papers. On page 20 appeared this paragraph: But the hour grows late, and I must close. (No, no! Go on! Go on!)

Pills That Have Benefited Thousands.—Known far and near as a sure remedy in the treatment of indigestion and all derangements of the stomach, liver and kidneys, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills have brought relief to thousands when other specifics have failed. Innumerable testimonies can be produced to establish the truth of this assertion. Once tried they will be found superior to all other pills in the treatment of the ailments for which they are prescribed.

Books and Bacon.—A miner, who was proud of his boy's attainments at school, one evening picked up a home-lesson book and read from it a quotation which ran like this: Some books should be tasted and some swallowed, and some chewed and digested. —Bacon. Turning to his boy, he said:

What's this, sonnie? Thou doesn't eat books at school, does that? I know you are very clever but you can't do these many-goat tricks. I'm sure, I'll warrant that'll be one of those printer's errors, sonnie.

Oh, no, father, said the boy, metaphorically speaking, we eat books. Now, you cannot fiddle me like that said the father. I didn't go to school very long, but I ken that's one of those printer's errors. Why, sonnie, can thou not see? He's put the word Bacon in the wrong place. It should be: Some bacon should be tasted, some swallowed, and some chewed and digested. —Books.

The Lancashire people are fond of dogs, in fact, very proud of them and therefore, when a prominent dog fancier came home one night and found his son had brought a nondescript mongrel he was not pleased. How much didst thee gie for that dog? he inquired.

Five shillings, replied the son. Tell thee what ah'll do, replied the parent. Ah'll gie thee half a crown for na share. The half crown was duly paid, then the father remarked: Ah'll take t' end, and ah'm going to kick my half outen t' door!

And he did.

Goiva's Ride a Myth

The latest story to suffer at the hands of the implacable investigators is that of the ride of Lady Godiva through the streets of Coventry—although the town of Coventry is still on the map and a Lady Godiva actually lived there about the 11th century. But the scientific chaps have delved into dusty records and found that Lady Godiva wanted her husband to aid in building and endowing a noble church. He agreed on condition that she strip herself of all her earthly possessions and live in poverty. A liberal interpretation would construe the clothes on her back as among her earthly possessions. The prosaic investigators have so far discredited the famous ride that the people of Coventry have abandoned their annual celebration of the event, accepting the judgment that there was nothing to celebrate.

The Question

A Scotchman was riding a donkey one day across a sheep pasture, but when the animal came to a sheep drain he would not go over. So the man rode back a short distance and turned and applied the whip, thinking of course, that the donkey when at top speed would jump the drain. But when the donkey got to the drain he stopped sharply, and the man went over his head and cleared the drain. No sooner had he touched the ground than he got up and, looking the beast straight in the face, said: Vera well pitched; but, then, hoo are ye goin' to get over yerse!

A SAFE TONIC FOR MOTHERS

Who Do Not Recover Their Strength as They Should

Every mother who fails to regain her health and strength after confinement needs a tonic. The years of weakness and suffering which so often follow are unnecessary and easily avoided. The fact that her strength does not return is a certain indication that her blood supply has been overtaxed and is impoverished. This condition is often made worse when the mother takes up her household duties while she is still weak, when a complete breakdown results. The strength a weak mother needs can be quickly found in the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills increase and enrich the blood supply, and thus bring health and strength to the exhausted system.

Mrs. Robt. Little says: "I have nursed for upwards of twenty-five years, and I could relate many cases, relieved and cured, through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In maternity cases which I nurse I always use them, and I know of no other medicine that so speedily builds up the mother at this critical time. I have also found them of great value in the case of young girls, and I can add that as for myself they have saved me many a doctor's bill. I feel safe in saying they are the best tonic medicine I know of."

Nursing mothers will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will give her the strength she needs, and they will at the same time aid in keeping her child healthy. If you do not find these Pills at your dealer's they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Both Ways

A white man during reconstruction times was arraigned before a colored justice of the peace for killing a man and stealing his mule. It was in Arkansas, near the Texas border, and there was some rivalry between the states, but the colored justice tried always to preserve an impartial frame of mind.

We got two kinds of law in dis vere cot, he said, Texas law and Arkansas law. Which will you hab? The prisoner thought a minute and then guess, i that he would like the Arkansas law.

Den I discharge you fo' stealin' de mule and hang you fo' killin' de man.

Ho! on a minute, Judge, said the prisoner. Better make that Texas law.

All right. Den I fin' you for killin' de man an' hang you for stealin' de mule.

TETLEY'S TEA

Makes Better Tea and More of It

Do You Know What This Label Means?

It means cement of the highest possible quality. It means cement tested by experts whose authority is final at all our mills. It means cement acknowledged by engineers, architects and hundreds of thousands of farmers to fulfill every requirement of scientifically made Portland cement. It means a cement that is absolutely reliable, whether used for a great bridge or for a concrete watering trough. You can use with complete confidence that your concrete work will be thoroughly satisfactory. You ought to have this confidence in the cement you use, because you have not the facilities for testing its qualities, such as are at the disposal of the engineers in charge of big contracting jobs. These engineers know that when cement has passed the tests made upon it at Canada Cement mills, it will pass all their tests. And this same cement is sold to you for your rail, your foundations, your feeding-floor, your milk-house or your watering-trough. Used according to the directions in our free book "What the Farmer can do with Concrete," Canada Cement never fails to give satisfactory results. Write for the book. It not only tells you how to mix and place concrete, but will also suggest scores of uses for it on your farm, every one of them valuable to you. In asking for the book you do not incur the slightest obligation.

BUILDING A BIG TEMPLE

MORMON STRUCTURE AT CARDSTON IS ON LAVISH SCALE.

Great Building Will Have Rooms Representing the Various States of the Universe Before and After the Fall—Lecture Rooms, a Sealing Room, and Apartments For Higher Priests Are All Provided.

Another great occasion has come to the Mormon world. When Southern Alberta began to be populated with the people of this faith, and throughout all the years since, yearly visits were made by many of the Mormon people to their home state, Utah. These visits were in most cases to perform duties in the temple there. It was thought wise by the leaders at Salt Lake and the authorities in Canada, to build a temple in Canada for the use of the Canadian members of the church.

President Smith, of Salt Lake City, was at Cardston, Alta., for the dedication of the site a short time ago. A large delegation was present from Utah, and the occasion will be long remembered in the history of the church in Canada. The new temple, moreover, will be the first to be erected on British soil. It is probable that the excavation will be completed this fall, but building the foundation will not be begun till next spring, when work will be pushed with the utmost vigor.

The ceremonial work for which the new temple will be built will comprise baptism, specifically baptism for the dead; ordination and associated endowments in the priesthood marriage ceremonies; and other sealing ordinances. Each of these ordinances may be performed either for the living, present in person, or for the dead, who are represented by an individual living proxy. Ordinance work for the dead exceeds by a great preponderance that for the living. The temple will be maintained largely for the benefit and salvation of the dead relatives of Canadian Mormons.

For the performance of these ordinances many different rooms will be required. The most important of these, perhaps, is the baptistry. In the Mormon Church baptism is required of all who have lived to the age of accountability. Only those who die in infancy are exempt. Many ancestors of the Mormon people have died without this water baptism, and for these an opportunity of posthumous repentance is given and the rite of baptism for the dead is administered. Baptismal fonts are usually placed in the basement floors and the accustomed plan will be carried out in the Cardston temple. Laying on of hands will also be performed in this room.

In the lecture rooms of the temple instruction is given to candidates relating to the significance and sequence of past dispensations, and the importance of the present time. This course includes a recital of the most important events of the creative period—the condition of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden and their expulsion; the plan of redemption as taught by the Mormon Church; the restoration of what the Mormon speaks of as "The Gospel," personal purity, etc. Provision is made for the giving of these instructions in different rooms, each devoted to a particular part of the course.

The garden room represents the earth as it was before sin entered and brought with it its curse. It is the Garden of Eden, depicted in miniature. Ceiling and walls will be decorated to represent sky and clouds, with sun, moon, and stars. The wall will show sylvan grottoes, mossy dells, lakelets, and brooks, waterfalls and rivulets, trees, vines, and flowers, insects, birds, and beasts—in short, the earth beautiful before the fall.

The world room will be painted with scenes typical of the earth after the fall. There will be similar landscapes to those in the garden room, but the whole representation will be that of the fallen state. Trees will be gnarled and mis-shapen, rocks rent and riven. Beasts will be shown contending in deadly strife. Thorns, thistles, and noxious weeds will abound everywhere, and in the distance a raging storm will be depicted. The lectures in this room will be on the fall of man, and the scenes painted on the walls will remind the candidate of the fallen world.

From the scenes of turmoil in the world room the candidate will be led to the peace and quiet of the terrestrial room. In it are given instructions relating to the significance of the endowments and the practical duties of a religious life. Next to this room and joined to it will be the celestial room. Between the two will hang silken portieres known as the veil of the temple. Through this the candidate enters to the celestial room.

In the sealing room for the living is solemnized the rite of celestial marriage. In the Mormon faith marriage ceremonies for the period of mortal life are not performed in the temple. In this sealing room contracting parties are married for eternity. Here also living children who have been born outside the pale of celestial wedlock, though within the legally constituted state of matrimony, may be sealed to their parents provided those parents have already been sealed to each other. In the sealing room for the dead similar ordinances are performed for the dead.

The holy of holies of the Cardston Temple will be situated between the two sealing rooms. It will be elaborately furnished, and its entrance will be guarded by a pair of sliding doors, which, in a measure, will correspond to the inner veil of the ancient sanctuaries. This room will be reserved for the higher ordinances in the priesthood relating to the exaltation of both living and dead.

Other rooms will make provision for presiding councils of the quorum of elders belonging to the two Canadian stakes, Alberta and Taylor.

The Alaskan Boundary. The Canadian Alaskan boundary is 2,507 miles long.

ANCIENT BONSECOURS.

Montreal's Great Market Is Picturesque Spot.

In the ancient heart of Montreal there gathers on certain days of the week, a buying, selling, bargaining, chattering throng. It is in a convenient place to transact business, convenient to get a large selection of what you want. If you go early enough, convenient for watching the various selling and purchasing methods. Some days they crowd to this place till you wonder whether any more could have room enough to walk about and effect their dealing. It is considered a boon to the poorer people to come to this spot and purchase their table necessities. It is not a grocery store, confectionery, or butcher's shop, that I am speaking of, but a genuine, price-lowering, popular, public market, so much talked about as a factor in cost-reduction by political economists and other guessers at the riddle of the rise in the price of living.

The market is called Bonsecours, in honor of the gray old-time church which stands within hailing distance. The market is old, but the church is older, built in 1771 in place of an older edifice burned in 1764. Here is where Montreal comes in as an historic town. The market comprises Jacques Cartier Square and a fine, old time-honored stone building, once a city hall. It is a familiar landmark to thousands of Montrealers. Talk about your fairs, and national exhibitions, here is an exposition every lawful working day. If you like the looks of cabbage, turnips, carrot, onions, chickens, ducks, turkeys, all the produce of the farm except the coarser grains, all on their best behaviour, you will be delighted to take a stroll along these booths and peer around and perhaps buy something to take home with you. If you are not single, but double, outside you see rows of booths, on the north side selling vegetables and poultry mostly, on the south side, stores offering all sorts of Canadian and even foreign fruits. It resembles a main thoroughfare of an active business town with the shops reduced to its size. But everything is done here in the open. You see the operations of the dealers from the street as it were and it somehow increases your confidence in making purchases, you do not seem to take so much on faith, at least it looks that way on the surface.

You will see two men in a booth piled high with cages holding the feathered denizens of the farmyard, crowing shrilly, or cackling wildly, and if you stand long enough you may see a long arm thrust into a cage, extract a chicken, wring its neck, pluck it, and put on the counter for sale. Some of the purchasers prefer to buy their chickens alive, lug them home, and commit chicken-slaughter in their own back yards. Strange, but most of these purchasers wear long beards, whitish or sandy, if they are masculine, and are of the religious faith that calls Christians Gentiles. These customers prefer preparing a live animal for the pot in their own way, make a sort of religion out of it, as it were.

You will see also some unusual things offered for food, or pets, just as your inclinations are. For instance, rabbits. Two or three booths make a specialty of these among other articles. Another dealer sells red foxes, and by the number he had for sale you would judge that quite a market existed for these cute little animals. Those on display are young and would make boyish pets.

The old market building was erected in 1845 when Hon. J. Ferrier was mayor. Inside of its splendid central dome it bears inscribed the names of the Council, Mayor Ferrier, Alds. Linn, Trudeau, and Molson, and Councillors Laroque and Currie. Montreal had "commission" government in those days, with the aldermen elected by the council, and acting as a sort of Board of Control, after the old English style which was done away with by the British Municipal Act of the thirties.

The old market house stood on the site of a hotel, several stores, and an opera house, where Charles Dickens recited from his works when he visited Montreal in the thirties. It remained in use as a city hall till 1878, when the present City Hall was erected.

Was a Brave Sailor.

An interesting figure passed away recently in Toronto with the death of Captain O. G. V. Spain. He was one of Canada's few authorities on naval matters and coast defence, and had an active career as a sea fighter. As midshipman, he served on His Majesty's battleship "Minotaur" in the Egyptian War in 1882, and first scented the smoke of battle. For bravery in this war, he was awarded the Khedive's bronze star. In 1884-5 two years later, as Lieut. Spain, he served on the "Dolphin" during operations at Suakin in the East Sudan, and was again recognized for bravery in connection with a long-drawn-out defence of the army's water supply.

When he retired from the British navy, Captain Spain was made commander of the Canadian armed cruising fleet, of eleven ships, guarding the fisheries on the Canadian coasts. In 1898, he was made Commissioner of Dominion Police. In 1904, he was appointed wreck commissioner for Canada, and a nautical member of the lighthouse board. In 1905, he was made commander of Canada's marine service.

Rooster Travels Free.

A red game rooster beat his way over the G.T.R. from West Toronto Junction to Guelph, but was arrested as soon as he arrived in the G.T.R. yards. The rooster, flying up on the pilot of the engine as it stood at the water tank taking water, descended itself above the cow-catcher, and as the train drew out of the yards crowded lustily.

It stuck to its post until the train got to Guelph, where one of the train crew found it. It presented a most bedraggled appearance, and was almost all in, its features being filled with cinders and sand.

PLANS WOLFE CHURCH.

Canon Scott Would Build Memorial To Hero.

A proposal to erect a church to the memory of Wolfe, on a conspicuous site in the new Battledfields Park, which is now being opened up by the National Battledfields Commission, has been made by Rev. Canon Scott, of Quebec. Already a beautiful avenue has been put through, connecting the Plains of Abraham, on the cliffs overlooking the St. Lawrence, with the battlement of St. Foye, overlooking the St. Charles Valley. This avenue is named the Avenue des Braves. It is proposed to erect the church on a piece of ground which is the highest spot on this avenue, and the highest part of the whole future park. The option on the site has already been secured, the property having a frontage of 260 feet on the Avenue des Braves.

Standing on the proposed site one can see across the fields the very place where the battle was fought, and when the trees are bare of leaves, even the spot where Wolfe fell. To the north an extensive view of the Laurentian Mountains across the valley of the St. Charles is obtainable, while in the immediate foreground is to be seen the monument Aux Braves, marking the battlement of 1760.

Plans of the church have already been prepared. Two designs have been submitted, one of which is by R. A. Cram, architect of the extensions to St. Alban's Cathedral, and provides for a building in late Gothic style, with lofty interior, stone-vaulted roof, with nave of six bays, triforium, and large clerestory tracery windows. The interior is completely flanked with flying buttresses, with the exception of the west end, while the east end is to be rounded. The cost of the building will be in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars.

Already Canon Scott has received considerable support for the idea, and has to the ear of some very influential men both in England and in this country. The Archbishop of Canterbury writes: "Nothing could be better than that a church should be erected to the memory of Wolfe, whose claims to our gratitude are recognized, I think, by everyone." Prof. Osler, regius professor of medicine at Oxford, thinks the suggestion excellent, and promises to help in any way he possibly can. Lord Halifax, of whose family Gen. Wolfe was a distant connection, approves highly of the proposal, and will give his support. The Archbishop of York says he is much interested, and hoped the idea would meet with every success. He will contribute later as a token of his interest and of his connection between Gen. Wolfe and the Diocese of York. Others who are interested are the Duke of Newcastle, the Bishop of Winchester, Lord Stanhope, and many others.

The body of Gen. Wolfe at present lies buried in the family vault at St. Alphege's Church, Greenwich, Eng., but, at least, in this memorial church a cenotaph to Wolfe might be erected if it could not be that his actual remains might be brought to Quebec. Again, no more suitable place could be found to hang the flag in which Wolfe was wrapped and carried off the field of battle. This flag is at present carefully preserved and hung in an English cathedral. Possibly other relics of Wolfe may find their way to the church, such as his private Communion Book, which is still preserved. In an age when such a thing was uncommon Wolfe led a pure life. Canon Scott has been in England doing some necessary work in connection with the matter.

The Great Lakes.

We all know in a general way that Lake Erie and Lake Ontario are comparatively shallow, with maximum depth of 264 feet and 412 feet, and yet we should not like to fall overboard in either of them. In width—maximum figures of Lake Superior comes first with 60 miles, Huron second with 105, Michigan third with eighty-four, Erie fourth with sixty, and Ontario last with only fifty-two miles of greatest breadth.

In comparison with its area, Ontario leads with a drainage of 29,769 square miles for its area of 6,700, the others being Erie, drainage 39,680, area 10,000 square miles; Huron, drainage 74,000, area 23,000 square miles; Michigan drainage, 70,000, area 22,400 square miles; and Superior, drainage 85,000, area 32,000 square miles. Drop in elevation is very gradual. Lake Superior being 600 feet above sea level, Michigan 578 feet, Huron 574 feet, Erie 564 feet, and then comes a big drop to 234 feet for Lake Ontario.

Plague of Rats.

While removing an oat stack on his farm near Carman, Man., recently, Wilson Roblin discovered a large colony of rats. With the aid of pitchforks Mr. Roblin and his hired man were able to kill eighty-six. As Carman is 50 miles west of Winnipeg this is regarded evidence that unless drastic and determined effort is made to exterminate them it will be but a short time until this pest spreads all over Western Canada.

Not All "Pure Maple."

Extensive adulteration of maple sugar and maple syrup is indicated in bulletins just issued by the Inland Revenue Department. Of 128 samples sold as maple syrups, only 86 were found to be genuine, while of 82 maple sugar samples, 56 were adulterated.

CANADIAN HOWLERS.

Our Boys and Girls Can Muddle Their Answers on Occasion.

Canada's great wheat crop this year is almost rivalled by the wonderful crop of amusing answers in the examination papers which the examiners have been going over during the past few weeks.

Canadian pupils seem to need considerable coaching on history, according to some of the tales told by the examiners. Here are a few of the answers to queries in the History paper: "The Boers tried to take Canada, but were defeated by a famous British general, John Bull."

"The Jesuits were so strict that a number of young men took to the woods and married Indians."

"Gen. Braddock had five horses shot from under him, and was mortally wounded, but his men escaped, leaving their arms, ammunition, guns and baggage, and everything but themselves."

"Lloyd George is a Christian because he helps the cause of woman suffrage."

"Bosworth field is important because it was at this place that Mary blew up her first husband."

"Frontenac established royal government, the fur trade and other religious institutions."

One of the questions was a request to define a Papal interdict. List to one reply:

"An interdict was an edict from the Pope forbidding all births, deaths, marriages and baptisms."

Another candidate for honors expressed his belief that the eldest son of the Pope always succeeded to the Papal chair.

Out in the west one pupil wrote to Hon. Robt. Rogers was the Premier of Canada. Other guesses were Henri Bourassa, W. H. Taft, Sir John A. Macdonald, and General Booth.

One hopeful set down his conviction that the C.P.R. began at the St. Lawrence River, crossed the Great Lakes and goes through the Welland Canal.

Here are a few other odd answers: "The races of men are white or Caucus, Red or Indian, and Negro or Episcopalian."

"You should not feed a horse while it is eating."

"The robin lays between four and five eggs in her nest."

"The solar system was originated by Neptune, the English astronomer."

A Sentimentalist.

The following story is told of James L. Hughes, the widely-known educationalist, who recently resigned the Inspectorship of Toronto's schools.

"One of my boys was attending a school in the east end, and my wife and I thought he was not doing him there. We wanted to get him into Dufferin school, where we had both been educated, by the way, but it was filled. The principal referred us to Dr. Hughes. I went to see him and stated my desire. He leaned back and said 'For what reason?'"

"He has to cross the street car tracks to get to the school he is attending now," I said.

"Many other children also have to cross car tracks. That reason won't do," said he.

"Well, we don't like the progress he is making under his present teacher," was my second plea.

"Reason No. 2 won't do either," was his reply.

"Well, I'm a Dufferin school old boy and I would like him to go there," was my next.

"He shook his head. 'Can't do it for that reason, either.'"

"Those were the only three reasons I had thought of using and every one of them had failed to move the inspector. I was beaten. But suddenly I thought of another—one that I previously discarded as of little weight—and I decided to try it."

"My fourth and final reason," I said, "is that my wife and I first met and grew to love each other at Dufferin school."

"Dr. Hughes brought his fist down on the table with a decisive smash."

"Good!" he exclaimed. "That's a sufficient reason. Your application is granted!"—Canadian Courier.

Married Mighty Young.

Government members received much sound, if strenuous, training in the art of "sizing up" human nature and its versatility when the busy days of job-hunting commenced, and many, indeed, are the tales told of the weird and original methods adopted by applicants to gain the coveted goal. It is related of Mr. W. F. Nicke, the young Conservative, who captured the former Liberal riding of Kingston, that on the morning after the election he encountered a stewart who saw him first.

"Me and my two sons voted for you," the man volunteered.

The member-elect beamed his acknowledgments and then put them in words, good, hearty words, too. But the voter tarried.

"I want to be appointed guard at the pen."

"But how old are you? The age limit is forty."

"No trouble there, I am thirty-six," was the prompt, unblinking response. The member smiled. "Married mighty young, then weren't you?" he observed.

"How old are those two voting sons?"

Salmon Pack Poor.

The canneries of northern British Columbia report a lean year for the season just closed, the sockeye salmon pack totalling only 180,000 cases. The average pack of the last sixteen years was 750,000 cases. Puget Sound canneries, however, report a big season.

The Fraser River pack amounts to 500,000 cases this year, against 1,000,000 in 1911.

Tasmania's Record.

During the 1911-12 season Tasmania's products included 659,615 bushels of wheat, 1,604,633 of oats, 438,864 of peas, 1,505,944 of apples and 62,164 tons of potatoes.

AFTER MUSHROOMS.

Now Is the Time For the Little Fellows To Show Up.

Mushroom time is at hand again, and all over the broad Dominion the young and the grown-up are keeping an eye in likely places for the succulent fungi.

Perhaps the best known of all the varieties is the meadow mushroom, whence is derived the spawn from which the ordinary commercial article is grown. Very partial to pasture fields, particularly where sheep run, there are several places near the city where its white cap and pink gills attract the gatherer. None of the bad growths can be mistaken for it. The gills turn a brown, later a black, before decay.

How could anybody mistake this second variety? The morel is pale buff in color, it is deeply honey-combed and pitted, and its stem is partly hollow. In Queen's Park or Trinity College Grounds, in High Park, Toronto, or down at the Riverdale, even in Clarence Square, it is indigenous to a great many of our city breathing spaces—this Morchella Esculenta—and a diligent ambulator may gather him by the big basketful, so prolific is the crop, any time from the season's opening till late in November. Hunt for morels wherever you see a patch of filled land. Many is the big, tasty morsel come from the city water-side dumps, even, and they say that an enthusiast has named a near morel a—haunter of the earth backing to the sea-wall—after a one-time controller. Nothing will bring out the morels like the warm, damp nights to be looked for during September.

Pronounced by epicures the choicest of all mushrooms, the third of our local grass-fleas, is termed by the learned, the Agaricus Procerus. Any one will enjoy swallowing a toothsome dish of these, rather than the mushroom. Once again it is not understandable how an amateur, the veriest tyro, can mistake this variety for any detested toadstool ever trod under foot. Like the last, it is a buff color, but spotted with dark shaggy patches, and to secure the parasol mushrooms frequent any place where cattle pasture or horses graze, or seek the margins of woods.

You do not need to take my word for it. "Wherever," says an authority, "an agaric on a long stalk, enlarged at the base, presents a dry cuticle, more or less scaly, a darker colored umbonated top, a moveable ring on the stalk, and white gills, it must be the agaricus procerus, and it may be gathered and eaten without fear."

A pocketful, or a peck, you will like the tender succulence of the shaggy-named variety—Coprinus comatus—common all over, and a delicious, nutritious dainty of the fields. Yet once more, no poisonous kind looks like it—in shape of a closed umbrella, of a downy whiteness, beautifully spotted with brown. Beneath it is a delicate pink when young, but speedily turns black and dissolves into an inky substance, leaving but the bare stalk standing. You can often have them as late as December.

Reminiscent of a "swell" dinner, that name—he's the fairy-ring mushroom—and may be growing in the morning fortnight right outside your window, unbeknown, unless you acquaint yourself with the buff-colored, leathery-looking fungus, growing in crescent-shaped patches, or sometimes forming irregular rings. The full, soft masses may be picked and strung, it is said, and retain their piquant flavor for years.

Slow and sure now, gleaner of the wood-lots! The false fairy ring differs from the true in the gills and in the lines under the cap—where they are crowded close together, and not wide apart as in the true food. The false kind has a depressed cap, the true has it always rounded. Also, if its taste is acid and not sweet and agreeable, reject it.—C.M.C., in Toronto Star Weekly.

A Delver In Figures.

A book has just been printed at Lindsay, prepared by the town auditor, H. J. Lytle, that represents many months, or even years, of tedious, exacting labor. The copy contained over two hundred thousand calculations, only one-half, however, being used in the published work. It is somewhat difficult for one not versed in municipal lore to understand the magnitude of the work, but an idea can be formed from the fact that any rates levied by a council which can be expressed by one or any possible combinations of two or three figures, on amounts from $100, increasing by sums of $100 until $9,900 is reached, are to be found on its pages, or, in other words, every rate from one mill to nine and ninety-nine hundredths mills is furnished. In order to make the work as nearly perfect as possible after reading the proofs with the copy, Mr. Lytle again proved the calculations mentally without the copy. He disclaims any credit for ability in his work, further than a little stick-to-it-iveness.

Mr. Lytle's book will never figure among the best sellers, nor will he coin money with it. Only one copy will probably be sold in any municipality and possibly not that many in some of the smaller communities.

Nuns' Sacrifice.

Three nuns have just left Montreal to spend the remainder of their lives in the leper colony at Sheklung Island, near Canton. All three are only a little more than twenty years of age. For a time, at all events, they will be the only nuns to care and tend for four hundred Chinese women suffering from the awful disease of leprosy, and a separate hospital has been erected for them by Father Conrardy and his few assistants.

King's Beer as a Prize.

Mr. Tom Wright, the heaviest inhabitant of Derby, ran a 50 yards' race at Burton-on-Trent with Mr. George Fairburn, an elderly Burton man, the prize being a bottle of the famous ale brewed by King Edward. Mr. Wright felt, his opponent winning easily.

Woman's World

Pretty Girl Appointed Game Warden.

MISS NORMA FREDERIC GIBBONEY.

"I have already made two arrests for game violations. I had no trouble with the prisoners. I carried a revolver and a shotgun, and the pothunters knew that I could use either of them."

Which announcement goes to show that Miss Norma Frederic Gibboney didn't become game warden merely to wear a bright badge. Miss Gibboney was appointed warden recently by Governor Emmet O'Neal of Alabama. She probably is the only woman in the United States with this sort of commission.

When the news of her appointment was made public the pothunters in their hats along the Mobile bay marshes thought it a good joke.

"She's one of these society women," they laughed. "She never would come out on a rainy day for fear of getting her feet wet. On with the killing!"

They were fully convinced of their mistake when the handsome warden came upon two of their number slaughtering ducks and marched them in with one hand resting significantly on the black butt of the revolver at her hip.

Miss Gibboney's home is Aloha. It stands among acres of forest and foliage. Mobile bay stretches away to the east, and at the back is the Dog river. She is a deadly shot with a rifle and can bring down the mallards from behind a blind with the best shots in Mobile. It was her love for animals and not the passion for hunting that led her to become one of the Alabama game police.

"It is the birds that I particularly want to protect," said Miss Gibboney recently when speaking about her work. "We seldom realize how much good they do. If they didn't prey constantly on the insects we would be without vegetation before very long. I am familiar with every bird of Alabama. Ten years ago you could see flocks of beautiful blue cranes in the edge of the water out there. Now they are curiosities."

"I have recently fitted out a log cabin in the midst of ten acres of forest that is just as nature made it. I intend to spend the rest of my life there."

Miss Gibboney is well known over the entire south. She is a frequent visitor to New Orleans. She is a descendant of Zack Taylor, Patrick Henry and the Virginia Sheltons. She is prominent in society. From now on she won't see much of receptions and pink tea.

Concerning Women.

Mrs. Elsie Chews Parsons of New York has written a book which she calls "The Old Fashioned Woman." Mayor Gaynor, who generally is credited with saying what he thinks, declared that it is a most interesting book, but suggests that the title might be changed to "Primitive Fancies About the Sex."

Mrs. Metcalf resides at the station at Sackett Harbor, on Lake Ontario, and looks after the buildings, which are old and worn, for $1 a day. She is therefore the only woman "commandant" in the United States and was present when the monument to commemorate the victory in the war of 1812 was dedicated recently.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Borden in "Reminiscences of a Diplomat's Wife," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser, is described as a former friend of the grandchildren of Queen Victoria. Upon one occasion one of the princesses gave her a ring and excused the fact that it was not a more expensive one by the remark, "But, you know, Granny Alice is so stingy."

Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, librarian of the League of American Penwomen, is a member of the school board of Washington and has been chosen by the commissioners to represent the District of Columbia at the international congress of school librarians to be held in Buffalo the next week in August. She is one of the officers of the League now in the press.

What We Have Thought

It is quite evident that it pays to advertise if one goes over to the station and watches some of the people of Gleichen leaving for Calgary with their pockets bulging with hard earned dollars to spend in the stores up there.
We suppose the Herald has no compunction in taking this money out of town when there are thousands upon thousands of dollars in debts owed to merchants in the country.
So who says there is a shortage of the filth?

Why should not Gleichen have a big at home sale that would eclipse any Calgary affair. Storekeepers put on your thinking caps and talk it over. Other towns are going to do the stunt.

We have wondered why the Calgary Herald did not incorporate with the free transportation idea, hotel bills. We have here close on to 1000 Indians who would have been only to glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to go to Calgary—for be it known our red friends know how to spend money.

Don't think the Call reporter knows all the news.
Just tell him all you know or send it in and make him happy.

There is now talk of turning the Philippines into a

Most any Filipino, even without a title, is the equal of

One foresees the triumph of the potato, unforeseen by Will Cobbett, not so much as a food but as a means of motion. Coal is giving out; petrol is going up in price and down in production. The supply of both is limited and must come to an end, but there comes the cheer that alcohol will be the motive force of the future. Petrol and coal may give out, but the earth will always grow potatoes.
Potatoes can produce alcohol and alcohol can drive engines. In the potato we seem to have discovered the secret of 'perpetual motion.'

Despite the exceptionally low cost of production and the high prices, and the educational and inspirational work along the lines of mixed farming, the supply is not yet able to meet the demand of the home market by a very wide margin. Frozen meat and packed butter still come into the west to the extent of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. The foreign rival is boldly bidding for the the market, and once he obtains a foothold it will be hard to oust him. But meanwhile the demand should stimulate and accelerate production to an exceptional degree.
And the signs are not wanting that the increase of livestock in 1914 will break all records in the west.

Something About Mail Order Houses

Many arguments have appeared in various papers throughout the country pointing out reasons why people should trade at home instead of with mail order houses, but here is one that, to our knowledge, has not been mentioned.

Suppose you go to a local store to buy a pair of shoes. The salesman shows you his stock and will call your attention to the fact that "this is a Slater shoe," or
"this is the famous Amherst." He will always tell you the name of the manufacturer. He does so because the manufacturers of the recognized standard of good have a reputation at stake and they must turn out a grade of goods that will sustain it. This is also true of other goods.
The local merchant supplies you with goods made by a reputable manufacturer. Do you see the name of the manufacturer in the description of articles in mail order catalogues? Can you buy McCormick or Deering machinery or I.H.C. gasoline engines any cheaper from Eaton than from the local dealer? Can you buy these makes of machinery from him at all? He does not handle this grade of goods because the manufacturers have one wholesale price to everyone, consequently the mail order people are forced to sell an inferior article to compete with the country dealer. This does not apply to machinery alone, but to boots, shoes, clothing, hardware furniture, groceries in fact everything sold by the mail order houses. Their goods look fine on paper, but then, we have seen people so homely it made their head ache, who looked handsome in a side view photograph. Any time you buy from a mail order house you can bet dollars to doughnuts that you are buying a cheap and inferior article.

Namaka Items

Namaka has been a busy place during the past week. The big railway camps that have been making the grade for the loop line south of Namaka have been breaking up. J. A. Sandrens camp came into Namaka on Wednesday and shipped a train load of horses to Mr. Sandrens ranch at Pincher Creek. W. H. Buker was kept rustling to provide meals and beds for the party during the few days stay. Mr. Sandren and his bookkeeper, Mr. Moe, left Namaka in their automobile en route for Pincher Creek via Langdon and Calgary.

The Sullivan camp has broken up. James Sullivan is in Gleichen for a few days but Mrs. Sullivan has returned to the states with her father, Mr. Craig. Mr. Sullivan will follow in a few days after he has finished his business arrangements in the district.

Roose & Wikstrand have broken up their camp, both the partners stayed at the Namaka House for a few days.

J. B. Sim is finishing up the threshing at the Namaka Farm this week. This outfit has had a splendid run and 1913 is likely to be remembered as a splendid fall for threshing in this district.

Receipts of live stock this week were as follows:
Cattle - Horses - Hogs - Sheep
2501 57 3097 3308

The market this week remained unchanged, beef of all kinds not being in much demand as the packers have heavy supplies on hand, and we do not look for prices to advance for a few weeks anyhow. There is still a good demand for stockers of all kinds, especially the stronger cattle. Hogs continue to come down.

Sheep and lambs as quoted.
We beg to quote the following prices fed and watered for next week:

—STEERS—
Choice heavy butcher, 1100 to 1300 $6.25 to $6.50
Common butcher 1000 to 1200 6.00 to 6.25

FIGHTING A TRUST IN BINDER TWINE

Statement of the Grain Growers' Guide
With a Logical Deduction
Therefrom

In the Grain Growers' Guide appears an interesting article on binder twine. Dissatisfied with the high price of twine the Grain Growers' Association for a year past has been investigating the cause, and as a result has come to the conclusion that the American binder twine manufacturers have created a corner in the raw materials, and established a monopoly. This, says The Guide, is a serious situation for the Western farmer, who has to have the twine at any cost, as there is nothing to take its place.

"The Secretary of the Grain Growers' Association," so we are told, "has had the problem under consideration for a long time, and last fall he took the matter up with some British capitalists and manufacturers with the object in view of starting a British binder twine industry in competition with the American trust. It was then that the investigation of the real conditions started, but the project had to be dropped, because it was demonstrated to the satisfaction of the investigators that the United States binder twine trust had such an absolute monopoly on the necessary raw material that effective competition was out of the question."

The Guide adds: "There is reason to hope, however, that the Western farmer soon will be independent of the American binder twine trust. The investigation by the Grain Growers' Association and the British manufacturers resulted in an attempt now being made to introduce machinery using flax straw instead of the present material. If this experiment is successful it will mean the establishment of a new industry in the Western Canadian Provinces, a big saving for the farmer, and, besides, let him out of the twine trust's clutches." So far so good! But while struggling to free the farmer from one American combine, the Guide advocates a fixed policy which would enable two or three score United States trusts to drive competing Canadian industries out of business and then advance the prices of many necessities of life at their own will all over the Dominion.

CATTLE AND HOGS NEEDED FOR MARKET

Scarcity and High Price of Meat
Point to Profitable Opening
For Our Farmers

In the high price of meats and the scarcity of cattle, sheep and hogs the Canadian farmer has a strong incentive to go in for livestock where he has not done so before, and to go in on a larger scale where he already has made a beginning. The population is growing far faster than the meat supply both in Canada and the United States and the new American tariff will, it now appears, admit Canadian cattle to the States free of duty. It would look as though the Canadian farmer has a profitable source of pretty high profits right at hand.

That extensive sections of the West appreciate the situation is indicated by the statement that one man has brought 8,000 young steers from Mexico. It is said that Alberta alone will have 500,000 hogs ready for market this year and that the Lethbridge district will yield 1,000,000 pounds of wool. There is plenty of room for progress along this line.

Six or seven years ago Canada and the United States were both considerable suppliers of cattle and meat to European countries, particularly Britain. In 1905 Canada exported to Britain 148,718 live animals, and the United States 414,000. In 1912 Canada exported to Britain 6,800 cattle, and the United States 39,987. The North American countries have dropped out of the cattle and meat exporting business on account of their increasing home population and an ever diminishing quantity of stock.

Packing Plants

Writing from Moose Jaw to his paper, Mr. Norman Lambert, Western representative of the Toronto Globe, says:

"Already plans are being made by public and private interests for the accommodation of the increased volume of mixed farming products which will be marketed in this Province in future. The Gordon-Ironside-Farmer Co. have arranged to build a large packing plant at Moose Jaw, and Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan, is now talking of the establishment of a packing plant and abattoir on a co-operative basis, similar to that of the elevator and creamery companies in Saskatchewan.

Wonderfully fertile land is offered for sale by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at prices ranging from $11 to $30 per acre. There is no better agricultural land than this virgin Canadian soil. It is unsurpassed for all forms of agriculture, including grain growing, stock raising, dairying, poultry culture, vegetable growing, and general mixed farming. The lands are convenient to railways and markets, and are located in a country of low taxation and delightful climate.

TWENTY YEARS TO PAY

Under the Company's new policy no land is sold to speculators, but only to those who will occupy and improve it. The terms of sale are now one-twentieth cash and the balance spread over twenty years, with interest at six per cent per annum.

ASSISTANCE TO FARMERS

Under certain conditions the Company will advance a loan of $2000 to new settlers to be used in erecting a house and barn, fencing the land and sinking a well. This loan is repayable on the same terms as the purchase price.

CHAPTER XXIII
Billy Man

There was no answer to her summons, and again she knocked. Still there was no answer, but she was aware of an impression that some one from within was watching her intently through the shuttered window. She knocked again, and louder than before and some of the doors of the street began to congregate round her. One untidy, unwashed woman asked her who she wanted.

I want to get in here, said Dora, and knocked still more loudly, and this time an answer came; perhaps those within began to feel too much attention was being attracted.

The door opened and Dora saw a sullen-looking woman in whom she failed to recognize, having only once had a passing glimpse of her, the Mrs. Crookes who had acted as cook at Jermyn Gardens. But Mrs. Crookes knew her, and surveyed her and the little crowd of onlookers with equal disfavour.

You had better come in, she grumbled, evidently unwilling to talk in the hearing of these others, and she opened the door more widely.

Dora hesitated, but she had not gone so far to draw back at the last moment. In spite of her fears, she entered, and Mrs. Crookes at once banged, locked and bolted the door behind her.

Well, now, what d'yer want? she demanded angrily.

Dora looked about her without replying immediately. She was in a narrow dirty passage which she noticed with surprise and some alarm was closed at the end, where the foot of the stairs should have been, by a door of stout and massive appearance, apparently only recently put up. On each side of the passage were rooms which Dora observed through their open doors were quite unfurnished.

Come, what d'yer want? Mrs. Crookes demanded surlily, at the same time glancing over her shoulder with a certain air of uneasiness.

I want to see a man named Green, Dora answered.

Green, Green, Mrs. Crookes repeated. Nobody with that name here, never was.

Dora hesitated. She did not believe the woman, and she decided to try the effect of a bribe, having found that method so effectual with the Clerkwell landlord. She put her hand into her pocket, and produced her purse, and the moment that she showed it Mrs. Crookes leaned forward and snatched it and slipped it into her own pocket.

Why—why, stammered Dora perfectly astonished, how dare you? Give me back my purse this instant. But the woman laughed, and then seemed to hesitate, as if after all rather.

SALT RHEUM CAME OUT ON HANDS

Formed Watery Pimples. Itchy and Had Horrible Burning Sensation. Lost Some of Finger Nails. Could Not Open Hands. Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

235 N. Lisgar St., Toronto, Ontario.

"For seven years I have been troubled with salt-rheum. It came out on my hands and formed kind of watery pimples all over them which became itchy and it had a horrible burning sensation which caused me a good deal of pain. It came out on my hands in the fall and remained there till after spring. I sought medical aid but lost some of my finger nails by the disease. During the month of June I was utterly unable to do any work, as I could not open my hands. I tried several other patent medicines without a bit of relief. Some of my friends advised me to try Cuticura Remedies so I sent for samples and by using them there was a great improvement. Then I went to the drugstore and bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment after using them I am glad to say I am completely cured. I had given up all hope of being cured. I can say to all those who have suffered as I have, not to lose courage but to give Cuticura Remedies a fair trial."

good for that poor stick of a Wilton Mayne, and now you shall marry me instead and we will have great times together. Do you remember that time Black Monday and I tried to catch you on the stairs? I wanted to take you off and marry you then, but that meddling Joan Durand came interfering. But now there's no one to interfere, and you shall marry me my dear, and not that fellow, that prim prig, that Wilton Mayne.

Was that you who attacked me on the stairs? asked Dora slowly; but there was no one there when we searched?

Why, because I hid in Wilton Mayne's room, he answered with a laugh; you see, that poor fool remembers nothing, but I—remember all.

He began to walk up and down, puffing out his chest with pride and trying to swagger, but somehow only managing to make his wretched slouch more pronounced than ever.

With a kind of frozen amazement Dora stood and watched him, and twining her hands together she asked herself if this could be? How was it possible that this degraded, wretched creature could possibly be identical with her admired poet? Why, he had been drinking, she could see that, and his eyes and his way of talking made her shudder.

Green kneeling by the fire and holding his rescued herring in his hands watched her with a look of compassion. Suddenly she came up to him.

Tell me, she said in a whisper; tell me if I am mad, or who this man is? He is Wilton Mayne, Green answered, but he is Billy Man, too; and if you don't understand, no more don't I.

But sometimes he is Wilton Mayne, what you know, a gent on the square with money and "friends," and is what not; and sometimes then he goes all crazed like, and when he comes to he ain't Wilton Mayne no more, but Billy Man, the toughest, wildest, cross cove in all Nodnol.

London, I mean, that is. And when he is Wilton Mayne he don't seem to know nothing about it, but when he is Billy Man then he remembers everything; and he uses the things he knows as Wilton Mayne to "help" him out as Billy Man. It's like as when d'ye see, miss, and sometimes, he added with a shiver, it makes me cold all through.

Dragon Club Leads Simple Life

The Dragon Club in London, with dinner for sixpence, has stirred many inquiries. It was a woman journalist who, at her last sixpence, offered to organize that Chelsea restaurant on cheap line and run it as a club. It was the superfluities that were cut off. The laundry bill—why should you eat from a bare table that can be easily cleaned? The crockery business was run on careful lines. "There is too much crockery for the simple life."

We eat off bare tables, writes the founder of the Dragon Club, and the food is cooked in French fireproof bowls with lids to them, serving the double purpose, when necessary, of saucepan and plate. Our spoons are of horn and bone, to save labor in polishing silver, and our mugs are Doulton to save labor, and we wait on ourselves, also to save labor. The meal is substantial, and the hungry person can get it by joining the club and putting up his sixpences for tickets.

Old-Time Health. Eating rape-Nuts.

"I had been sick for 10 years with dyspepsia and a lot of complications," wrote a Western woman.

"An operation was advised, change of climate was suggested, but no one seemed to know just what was the matter. I was in bed three days in the week and got so thin I weighed only 89 lbs. No food seemed to agree with me."

"I told my husband I was going to try some kind of predigested food to see if I could keep from this feeling of continued hunger."

"Grape-Nuts and cream was the food I got and nothing has seemed to satisfy me like it. I never feel hungry, but have a natural appetite. Have had no nervous spells since I began this food, and have taken no medicine."

"I have gained so much strength that I now do all my housework and feel well and strong. My weight has increased 45 lbs. in 8 weeks and I shall always eat Grape-Nuts as it is far pleasanter than 'taking medicines.'"

Ancient City Port Unearthed

The most important discovery at Pompeii for centuries is announced. It came through the efforts of Lorenzo Cozza, the sculptor of Rome, who has been carrying on the work begun by his father. He has just unearthed the first remains of the ancient city port situated 1,250 meters from the old city seashore now, and 700 meters from the old city gate. It was known as Porta Marina. The city of Pompeii itself is half a mile further inland than at the time of its destruction, the coast having been advanced. Mr. Cozza worked on the theory of this displacement of the coast line and for years he has been experimenting on a prolongation of the street leading eastward from Porta Marina. Recently he came upon solid blocks of granite at a depth of 23 feet under successive layers of ashes, lava and sand. Excavations proved that he struck the original quay, whose stones still bear indentations caused by the action of the waves. Much new light will be thrown on the shipping customs of ancient Rome. Further important discoveries are awaited.

5 YEARS' RHEUMATISM REALLY CURED!

Your Case Isn't Likely to be Worse, and Can be Cured Quickly by Nerviline

"After being an enthusiastic user of Nerviline for years, I feel it my duty to tell you personally what your wonderful preparation has done for me. I suffer torture from rheumatism and heart trouble, tried scores of so-called remedies, consulted for weeks and months with Toronto's most eminent physicians, but derived only slight benefit."

"A friend insisted on my using Nerviline, and to my surprise a vigorous rubbing of this powerful liniment eased the pains and reduced the stiffness in my joints. I continued to use Nerviline and was permanently cured."

"I am now perfectly well, and for three years have had no rheumatism at all. I know many families where no oil or medicine but Nerviline is kept—it is so useful in minor ailments like earache, toothache, neuralgia, coughs, colds, lumbago, and sciatica. I call Nerviline my 'Life Guard,' and urge all to try its merit."

The Muzzled Wolves

The wolves were upon us, he related to the girl he was trying to impress. Their howling, penetrated to our very marrow. We fled for our lives. But each second we knew that the ravenous pack was gaining on us. Closer and closer—at last they were so close that we could feel their muzzles against our legs so that—

Ah, sighed the lady, greatly relieved. How glad you must have been that the "bad" muzzles were not—

Not a Bad Case

So that is your avuncular relation. He was. But the new doctor we got cured him.

Place of Desolation: The abomination of desolation is this lake, declares a traveler who has visited the island of Trinidad, whence comes most of our asphalt. In spots, a palm killed by the asphalt droops disconsolately. A few tufts of grass have secured a footing in places. But for the rest it is a solid mass of black, dull, evil-smelling pitch, with pools of water here and there in which swim little bar-billed fishes. Against any of the hot spots in the world, bar none, this can be backed.

A wicked looking black snake six feet long glides into the bushes near the margin of the lake. It has been sunning itself on the asphalt. No wonder the serpents are supposed to be creatures of the devil. As for ourselves, 15 minutes stay takes away every bit of vitality we can summon. Not enough interest is left in life to inquire what the negroes heaving with mattocks at the asphalt receive in wages. They earn the pay, whatever it is.

There is no mechanical way yet discovered by which the stuff can be dug. Hour after hour these negroes hack the brittle pitch, which flakes away in pieces a foot square. They lift the burden to their heads and dump it into steel buckets, which start their slow way to the ship. The holes fill up in a few days with new pitch.

The lake is 90 to 100 acres in extent now, but it is gradually shrinking with the removal of such large quantities. A good percentage of the asphalt pavement in the world comes from this one lake and its geological complaint in Venezuela.

Salt Cellar Hoodoo

In some parts of the world, particularly in Germany, it is still believed that the upsetting of the salt cellar is the direct act of Satan—the peace disturber. And the habit of trying to avert any catastrophe which may happen by tossing a little of the salt over the shoulder is due to the belief that by so doing one hits the invisible Satan in the eye, which temporarily at least, prevents him doing further mischief.

Temperance

Beginning with the first of 1914, Iceland and tourists alike will have to quench their thirst with other than alcoholic drinks. Under the Anti-Spirit law, consumption of the present stock of liquors in Iceland, which will to a certainty be exhausted by January 1, was permitted.

Since Iceland began to deal with the liquor question in a drastic manner, her trade and industries have tremendously increased. In the past 20 years a great dairying trade has been built up and sheep raising and fishing have grown to enormous proportions.

It Will Cure a Cold.—Colds are commonest ailments of mankind and if neglected may lead to serious conditions. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will relieve the bronchial passages of inflammation speedily and thoroughly and will strengthen them against subsequent attack. And as it eases the inflammation it will stop the cough because it allays all irritation in the throat. Try it and prove it.

He was a young man—a candidate for an agricultural constituency—and he was sketching in glowing colors to the audience of rural voters the happy life the laborers would lead under an administrative for the propagation of sweetens and light. We have not yet three acres and a cow, but it will come. Old age pensions are still of the future, but they will come. Similarly every item of his comprehensive programme was indorsed by the same parrot cry. Then he went on to talk of prison reforms. I have not yet personally, he said, been inside a criminal lunatic asylum. Then there was a voice from the back of the hall: But it will come.

On the train out Medford way, Subbubs got into conversation with a stranger, who remarked: I see you are putting up a good many new buildings.

Yes, answered Subbubs; new buildings are the only kind we put up.

THE white hair and wrinkled faces of our busy men and women tell of doubt, fear and anxiety—more than disease or age. Worry plays havoc with the nervous system—so that digestion is ruined and sleep banished. What oil is to the friction of the delicate parts of an engine—is to the delicate organs of the body. It's a tonic and body builder—because it stimulates the liver to vigorous action, assists the stomach to assimilate food—thus enriching the blood, and the nerves and heart in turn are fed on pure rich blood. Nourishing is the cry of starved nerves for food. For forty years "Golden Medical Discovery" in liquid form has given great satisfaction as a tonic and blood maker.

DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery

Now it can be obtained in tablet form—from dealers in medicine or send 50 one-cent stamps for trial box. Write Dr. J. V. Pierce, Buffalo.

DR. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PELLETS Relieve constipation, regulate the liver and bowels. Easy to take as candy.

Cute Tommy

Mrs. Jordan had ideas on the way children should be reared. Her young hopeful, Tommy, caused her a little anxiety in this respect. Now and again, therefore, a serious politeness lecture was administered. Now, Tommy, dear, she started, supposing you accidentally stepped upon a gentleman's foot, what would you say?

I would say: Beg your pardon. That's my own little son! smiled the pleased mother. And if the gentleman gave you a penny for your politeness what would you do? The innocent look passed from Tommy's eyes as he quickly answered: Why, I would stand on the other foot and say: Beg pardon again, of course!

An Interchange of Ideas

Ambassador Page, discussing the labor question one day, said to a reporter: The labor question, like the question of capital, will be settled when labor and capital come to understand one another—when, as it were, they learn to speak the same language.

Bring them together now and they are apt to get on like the French girl and the American girl who met after a correspondence course in one another's tongue. Well, how did you get on? her mother asked the American girl after this conference. Oh fine, was the reply. Mademoiselle understood every word she said, and I understood every word I said.

Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen

In Waterman's Ideals it is a notable fact that gold pens can be had to suit every hand and character of writing. The more particular the writer the greater the satisfaction in suiting him. Back of the wonderful range of points in Waterman's Ideals, however, are other essential features which have made for fountain pen success: the famous spoon feed, the ink-tight chamber, friction cap, Ideal Clip, practical shapes, pure Para rubber, the sizes, types, etc. Avoid substitutes.

For Prof. Sir
The mild-mannered old gentleman who was staying with Mrs. Slimkins was a geologist, and when one morning his landlady's little son informed him that there was a queer old stone in a neighboring field, he was in high glee.

Come along and show it me, he said, making his way to the spot. I—I ain't got time, sir, said the boy, and then beat a hasty retreat. There were cattle in the field, but the professor took no notice of them until a terrible roar attracted his attention, and he saw a fierce bull advancing to greet him. It was a near thing, but the professor won by a trouser button. On the other side of the hedge he was surprised to see the landlady's son.

You little ruffian, shouted the professor. I believe you sent me into that purposely. I expect you wanted to see me killed. No, I didn't, sir, it was mother did. What? gasped the professor. She heard a dog howling outside our house last night, and as it means there'll be a death soon, mother thought it was only right to try and have it out of the family.

HAD ITCHING PILES FOR 27 YEARS

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why. Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed."

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much of it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this, can write direct to me."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Ethel—How did Jack happen to propose a second time?
Kitty—Because I refused him the first time, of course.

An Irish Ballad
Change here! cried a new porter at an Irish railway station, as a train came in. Change for Limerick, Gaywaynamoy.

The stationmaster, who was standing near, reproved him. Haven't I told you before, he said, to sing out the names of the stations clearly and distinctly? Bear it in mind, sing them out. Dye hear?

I will, sir, replied the porter, and the passengers in the next train that arrived were considerably astonished to hear the new official singing: Sweet dreamland faces, Passing to and fro, Change here for Limerick, Galway, and Mayo.

Did that fellow insult you by offering you a drink? Yes, he did. But did you swallow the insult?

Sir Sanford A Pathfinder

The London Times continues a series of articles on representative Canadians and devotes a column to Sir Sanford Fleming, whose mind, it says, is still vigorous and unclouded.

When he went to Canada at eighteen years of age, he sailed on a sailing ship which took forty days for the voyage. On landing at Quebec he had but two or three pieces of gold. He has since been a councillor to the country's various governments, a pathfinder for the Government and devoted himself to problems of the Empire, but has seldom been involved in party conflicts. To his mind there is servitude in party allegiance.

Details of the work of settling the Maine boundary dispute were undertaken by him, as also were surveys for the C.P.R. construction in 1880 and 1883.

The writer says that Sir Sanford never evaded the obligations of citizenship and was not content with the perfunctory performance of duty. He is also referred to as having a gracious manner, fine courtesy and adequate dignity.

Miner's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

A fire broke out one day in Francis Wilson's dressing room at the theatre where he was playing.

He had some of his books around him, and in an agony of despair asked himself:

Which shall I save? He glanced at his precious Chaucer, at some Shakespearean volumes, etc.

Come, Mr. Wilson, broke in at the door from a fireman, you have not a moment to lose.

Yes, yes. Coming, replied Wilson, absently.

He was looking for a special illustrated volume very dear to him.

Come, Wilson, cried his manager; come, get out.

All right, all right, said Wilson, and grabbing some clothes in one hand, he snatched with the other the nearest volume and ran to the street. There he looked at the huge volume in his arms. It was the city directory.

Captain Foretopp tells a story of a certain noted divine who was on his steamer when a great gale overtook them off the Oregon coast. It looks pretty bad, said the bishop to the captain. Couldn't be much worse, bishop, replied Foretopp.

Half an hour later the steamer was diving under the waves as if she were a submarine, and looking like an old door. Looks worse, I think, captain, said the bishop. We must trust in Providence now, bishop, answered Foretopp.

Oh, I hope it has not come to that, gasped the bishop.

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines deprive infants of the nourishment that they should derive from food, and malnutrition is the result. Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the morbid conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the full nutriment of the child is assured and development in every way encouraged.

Exit the Postage Stamp

Is the postage stamp doomed?

It is if a postal innovation hailing from New Zealand, where it has been tried with great success, is generally adopted by the postal authorities of the world. In the future, instead of buying postage stamps, licking or otherwise moistening the gum on their backs and applying sufficient pressure to cause adherence, all we may need to do will be to put our letters under a machine and turn a crank.

The machine, which in New Zealand is rented from the postal authorities, records the amount stamped, just like a gas meter, and payment is made to a collector, who calls at intervals. It gives impressions of half penny, one, three and six pence and one shilling, and as each impression is made its value is automatically recorded on a set of dials at the top of the machine.

As a precaution against fraud, the machines are turned out from the workshops with only one means of opening them and that it is by patent lock, the key of which is handed to the postal authorities after the machine has been exhaustively tested. There are no screws that will give admission to the interior and therefore the mechanism cannot be tampered with. The greatest safeguard, however, lies in the fact that the labor of committing a fraud would be valueless.

Chatly Walter (glancing out of window)—The rain'll be here in a minute or two now, sir.

Customer—Well, I didn't order it; I'm waiting for a chop.

Yes, said a smart young man, I used to be in the insurance business. I once got a man to take out a policy only about a week before he happened to be killed. He was a mighty hard chap to land, too. I had to talk to him for nearly six months before I got him.

I suppose, remarked his friend, you regretted, after it was all over, that your persuasive powers were so good?

Well—er—no. I never felt sorry about it. The fact is, I made the best of a bad job by marrying the widow.

George is going to take me to my first baseball game this afternoon. What would you advise me to wear?

An air of silence.

Fortunes in Wall Street

Louis Lombard, who began as an itinerant fiddler, and made a fortune in Wall street, has been made a knight of the order of the crown of Italy by Emmanuel.

Proud Father—I tell you, sir, that boy of mine will be a wonder.

Friend (wearily)—What wonderful thing has he done now?

Proud Father—Why, the other day he ate all the preserves in the pantry. I overheard him say, as he smeared the cat's face with the stuff: I'm sorry Tom, to do this, but I can't have the old folks suspect me.

Now They Don't Speak

Maud—So Jack compared me with something sweet, did he? The dear fellow! What was it?

Marie—I don't think I should tell you.

Maud—Oh, do, I insist.

Marie—Well, he referred to you as the human marshmallow. You certainly had laid the powder on thick, dear.

Copper Production

The world's production of copper last year, estimated at 900,000 tons was the largest on record and was nearly double that of 1900.

REMINGTON UMC METALLIC CARTRIDGES

Whether your arm is a Remington or any other standard make, whatever its calibre and the load you need, you want Remington-UMC metallics—not because they are necessarily stamped with the same name as your firearm, but because they give more accurate results.

This company has been making ammunition for fifty years. We produce metallics for every standard make of arm—and every Remington-UMC cartridge is tested in the arm for which it is made.

May we send you a booklet explaining simply many of the technical points of ammunition manufacture. Your name and address on a post card will bring it by return mail.

Don't forget the Masquerade Ball on the 21st.

Another fall of the beautiful took place early Wednesday morning.

George Gunderson, of Carlstadt, was here Saturday on business.

You can have the CALL every week from now to Dec. 31st, 1914, for $1.50.

Rev. E. Cox Clark has been quite ill the past week but is improving nicely now.

The U. F. A. elevator has installed a grain cleaner, also an automatic scale.

Jos. Rouche returned on Tuesday from a short trip to Montana and other southern points.

Some fine programs are being given at the Star moving picture theater, and big crowds attend.

Mrs. H. F. Ritz, of Anaconda, Mont., arrived this week to visit her brother at the Southern Alberta project.

According to a report as yet unconfirmed Bassano will be the centre of a new school inspection district.

Wm. Whitfield, John Daldrop and Alex. McRae have returned from Medicine Hat, where they just completed a building contract.

A. G. Edwards returned Tuesday to Cluny from an extended trip through the western states, and reports having had a pleasant and profitable time.

The Alberta Mineral Record appeared this week for the first time. It is devoted principally to the recently discovered oil fields south of Calgary.

The subscription price of the CALL is only $1.50 per year. If by any chance you are not a subscriber drop in and get your name on the list.

The CALL is late this issue and many interesting items missing, owing to the fact that the publisher was obliged to spend two days as witness in the Supreme Court at Calgary.

Those who have been so anxiously enquiring for Mrs. C. A. Klipper, who has been in a Calgary hospital for more than a week past danger-ill, will be pleased to know she is now out of danger and steadily improving.

Chasing up eloping debtors is one of the latest uses of a motor car. A Strathmore merchant, hearing that a certain man had pulled out with all movables, remembered a good account against him, and immediately chartered an auto and caught up with his quarry near Calgary. He states he got the account settled to his satisfaction. Another instance where promptness paid.

The Calgary Herald and some of the storekeepers in that place put up a scheme to down the country merchants by offering railway fares to out of town people who bought a certain amount of goods from them. This is a very old trick and it is rather surprising that a budding wholesale centre would work against the interests of the majority of their customers. Wise eastern wholesale house are now taking big fat orders from the country merchants.

NEWSPAPER LAW

1.—The postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reason for its not being taken. A neglect to do this makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.

2.—If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made.

3.—Any person who takes a paper out of the postoffice, whether directed to his name or not or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the pay.

4.—If a subscriber orders his paper stopped and the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it from the postoffice. This proceeds upon the ground that man must pay for what he uses.
